

TOTAL COMMUNICATION

Presented by: Jo Doyle

Communication is a fundamental human right essential for building relationships, expressing thoughts, sharing ideas, and participating in society. It enables learning, personal growth, and informed decision-making.

Total Communication uses various methods such as sign, speech, listening, writing, and visual aids to meet individual communication needs and abilities.

Focusing on Signing, Symbols and Adult/ Child Interactions, this session has been designed to equip participants with a comprehensive set of communication tools and strategies to effectively meet the unique needs of individuals

The aims of this session are to:

- Develop understanding of Total Communication and different methods of communication
- Consider the reasons why we communicate, the skills we need to communicate and what makes an effective communicator
- Examine various methods of communication and the finger spelling alphabet
- Consider why signs are an effective method of communication and learn some key signs for use both within school and at home
- Develop knowledge and skills in the use of visual symbols to aid understanding and expression
- Develop skills to create meaningful and supportive interactions between adults and children, promoting a positive communication environment that encourages language development and social engagement.
